

Masterclass and seminar with Prof. Alexandra Walsham (Cambridge University)

Call for papers

Deadline: 5 October 2018

Aarhus University, Denmark, 12 - 13 December 2018

Junior scholars (PhD students/postdoc fellows/assistant professors) are invited to submit proposals concerning their ongoing or future projects for a masterclass and a roundtable discussion conducted by Alexandra Walsham (Cambridge University). The intention is to discuss and improve the individual research questions, as well as considering general methodological issues.

Here are some of the fields which are relevant for this masterclass: early modern art history, late medieval studies, material culture studies, Reformation studies, the study of religion, archival studies, archaeology and digital humanities within early modern studies.

The aim of the event is also to stimulate international exchange on a junior level within the fields of early modern studies.

Participants are expected to read a few selected texts, write a paper of 2-3 pages presenting the project prior to the masterclass, make a short oral presentation during the masterclass, and participate in the excursion and seminar with a lecture by Alexandra Walsham on 13 Dec. Participation will generate 2 ECTS credits from the Graduate School at the Faculty of Arts, Aarhus University.

Procedure

5 October	Deadline for submitting proposals (½-1 page)
10 October	Rejection/acceptance of proposals
26 November	Deadline for upload of 2-3 pages of project presentation

The event is financed by the School of Culture and Society, Aarhus University, and the LUMEN research centre (<http://lumen.au.dk/en/>)

Participation is free, and the following expenses are covered:
